This Month in Our Room

Exploring Our Five Senses

This month in our afterschool program, we will be exploring the five senses and how they help us understand the world around us. Through hands-on activities, we will challenge each sense and investigate what happens when one is missing. Students will also learn about the inner workings of the body parts responsible for each sense. Our senses play a vital role in daily life, and this exploration will help us appreciate them even more.

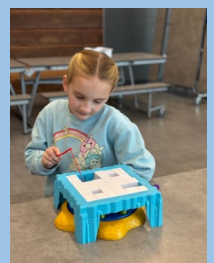

Family Activity

Never fear, Wisconsin weather will more than likely bring lots of snow in February. Don't forget sledding can be a great family activity.

Last Month in Our Room...

Last month, our afterschool program focused on studying winter weather. Although snowfall was limited, we still had a few opportunities to play outside in the snow and even experimented with watercolor painting on it. We also learned how whales stay warm in freezing waters through a fun, hands-on activity. To top it off, we brought the winter fun indoors with an exciting pom-pom snowball fight!
